Branding & Operations Intern

Support for everything that keeps an atelier running. The garments are produced by hand; the office side keeps everything else moving, and it has been one person until now. You would be the second, working directly with the person who leads operations.

THE HOUSE

We are a small slow fashion atelier in Berlin; our current collection was shown at Berlin Fashion Week in July. You would arrive at a busy time: Fashion Positions runs through the autumn, and the preparation for Berlin Fashion Week FW28 runs through the winter. You work on both, on the organising side.

The work, week by week

THE WORK

Rental: the rental orders that come in, from inquiry to handover.

Office: the daily administrative work that keeps the atelier running.

Content: photos and videos of what we produce, for Instagram and our website.

Events and production: the practical side of events, production and the season calendar. Every week is different; how we work does not change: we plan the week first, then we follow the plan.

WHO WE LOOK FOR

Mindset first. You bring genuine energy, you are flexible and versatile, and you are ready to help with whatever running an atelier asks for that day.

You are reliable enough to carry a plan through, and you are comfortable with a camera.

You study fashion management, brand management or business in Berlin, or you have experience in office work or communications.

From three months, longer as your mandatory placement (Pflichtpraktikum) requires. Start any day between 1 September and 1 October 2026.

Apply through our careers page, where the full description and the application form live: marielouisemueller.com/pages/careers. Applications are read personally, and every applicant hears back.
